

STATE OF MAINE
ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE
FIRST REGULAR SESSION
JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

In Senate Chamber
Thursday
April 20, 2017

Senate called to order by President Michael D. Thibodeau of Waldo County.

Prayer by Reverend Sarah Gillespie, St. Mary's d'Youville Pavilion of Lewiston.

REVEREND GILLESPIE: Holy One, whom we call by many names, we come together this morning with a common purpose, to serve all people of this great State with compassion and respect and dignity. We give thanks this day for the blessings in our midst, our health and our bodies which allow us to be here, our diverse families and faith traditions which sustain us and guide us in our work, our ability to listen to one another openly and peacefully. We lift up today those in our communities who are vulnerable, poor, forgotten, mistreated, and we know there are times when we miss the mark. Help re-center us today to live the lives of service to which all people are called. May we receive wisdom and courage to take the next steps on our path to peace and liberty. Grant us humble hearts and open minds to meet the challenges of this day. God of love and mercy, continue to make this place a place of hope and justice for all people. Amen.

Joint Orders

Expressions of Legislative Sentiment recognizing:

This is the highest award in Boy Scouting and is given for excellence in skills development, leadership, personal growth and community service. For his Eagle Scout project, Aaron coordinated the reconstruction of the baseball field and the installation of a new backstop at the James H. Bean School in Sidney. THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Kennebec, Senator Katz.

Senator KATZ: Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President and members of the Senate, it's my pleasure to rise today to recognize Aaron Young of Sidney. We all have constituents who have achieved the role of Eagle Scout, but we know how unusual that honor is. In fact, there's only one member of this Body who has achieved that ranking. That's the good Senator from Franklin, Senator Saviello. Aaron Young of Troop 401 in Sidney has achieved this honor. For his Eagle Scout project, Mr. President, Aaron coordinated the reconstruction of a baseball field and the installation of a new backstop at the James Bean School in Sidney. He's a fine young man. He's coming from a wonderful family. I believe his parents, Mike and Jen, are here today with him and our congratulations to Aaron for this high distinction which so few people achieve. Thank you, Mr. President.

PASSED.

Sent down for concurrence.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair is pleased to recognize in the rear of the Chamber Aaron Young and his parents. Would they please rise and accept the greetings of the State Senate.

Senator BRAKEY: Thank you, Mr. President and members of the Senate. I'm proud to speak this morning on behalf of Jeffrey Lacroix of Auburn. Jeff recently received the Eli Pick Award for high quality care from the American College of Health Care Administrators, an award given to only one administrator in the entire country. Jeff graduated from Husson University in 2008 with a bachelor of health science. He became a multi-level administrator with Central Maine Health Care in 2012, where he began at Rumford Community Home. He has been a member of Rotary International in Rumford since 2014, as well as a member of the Board of Directors for Androscoggin Home Care and Hospice. Jeff is also the Maine Chapter President for the ACHA. Jeff has worked extremely hard in his field and he is well deserving of this recognition. It is my pleasure to congratulate him in front of this Body today. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Cumberland, Senator Breen.

Senator BREEN: Thank you, Mr. President. It's my great honor today to welcome Naomi Zarin of the Town of Gray. She's an eighth grader at the Friends School of Portland, which is actually located in the Town of Cumberland, and this is the second consecutive year she's won the Cumberland County Spelling Bee, but, more importantly, since that time she is the Maine State Spelling Bee Champion from the Town of Gray. After 42 rounds in the Maine State Spelling Bee, she won with the word "copal" and I encourage you all to figure out what that word means because I just had to look it up. Over Memorial Day weekend Naomi will make her first appearance in the Scripps National Spelling Bee in Washington D.C., representing the great State of Maine. This will be her first trip to our nation's capital. Mr. President, I'm quite sure that I speak for you and the other distinguished members of the Maine Senate when I wish Naomi the very best in Washington and the very best in the spelling bee representing the State of Maine. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Washington, Senator Maker.

Senator MAKER: Thank you, Mr. President. Good morning, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate. I am pleased to be able to recognize Wyman's of Maine on receiving a 2016 Governor's Award for Environmental Excellence. With us today, representing Wyman's, are Homer Woodward, Vice President of Operations, and Adam West, the Manufacturing Manager. Wyman's of Maine is headquartered in Milbridge, but also has facilities in Cherryfield, Deblois, and on Prince Edward Island. Having been founded in 1874, the company has a long and rich history with Downeast Maine, employing many of our own. Wyman's has set a high priority on sustainable agriculture and environmental stewardship. They were chosen to receive this prestigious award by the Governor's Office because they made a conscience effort over the last several years to evaluate and reduce their energy and water use and to limit the pollutant discharges to the Narraguagus River. Additionally, internal facility practices, system upgrades, and system changes were made throughout Wyman's processing center to limit water use and reduce or eliminate solid discharge. Their commitment to sustainable practices and environmental excellence, I believe, has played a key role in their success. We have some great businesses in Maine and Wyman's is certainly one of them. I am so glad Homer and Adam were able to join us today, all the way from Washington County. Congratulations to them on this terrific achievement.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Hancock, Senator Langley.

Senator LANGLEY: Thank you, Mr. President. Men and women of the Senate, I, too, rise to add my congratulations to this prestigious award for Wyman's. I do so because I've had a 30 year relationship with this company. When people give us high marks for our blueberry pie it's because it's Wyman's blueberries that are inside those crusts. Over those 30 years I found them to be a really dedicated company, not only to promoting blueberries but promoting Maine all across the world. I've had the pleasure of meeting their clients over those 30 years. They come from all over the world. A lot of those folks come from Asia. What's interesting about how their clients operate, their Japanese customers, for example, will send quality control people to come during the harvest to stand there in the fields and watch the stuff be processed, packaged, and shipped. Their demand for the highest of quality, for me, is just another endorsement of their product. All the way around, this is a great company so I'd add my congratulations to those of the good Senator from Washington County.

PASSED.

Sent down for concurrence.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair is pleased to recognize in the rear of the Chamber Homer Woodward and Adam West of Wyman's of Maine. Would they please stand and accept the greetings of the State Senate.

On motion by Senator BREEN of Cumberland, supported by a Division of one-fifth of the members present and voting, a Roll Call was ordered.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Cumberland, Senator Breen.

Senator BREEN: Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President and ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, I rise today to speak in opposition to the current motion. This is a very, very tightly drafted bill that simply moves forward the will of the voters. This is about the senior housing bond and this Body approved the bond in the last Legislature. The voters approved the bond at the ballot. It's important to me that we follow the will of the voters. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Kennebec, Senator Katz.

Senator KATZ: Thank you, Mr. President. Men and women of the Senate, I also rise in opposition to the pending motion. I think the principle here is really pretty simple. When Maine voters have approved State borrowing at the ballot box no one, including a Chief Executive, should have the right to veto that decision. That's it. I could sit down right now, Mr. President. If you agree with this principle than that should be the end of this. Talking about bonds, as you know, the Maine Constitution is clear. The people do not entrust major borrowing decisions to the Legislature, to the Chief Executive, or to the Judicial Branch. That power is reserved only to the people. For major borrowing through bonds the Legislature must first approve a ballot question by two-thirds vote and then survive any potential Chief Executive veto. Then and only then the question goes on the ballot and the people from Kittery to Fort Kent decide. If the people say no, we don't borrow the money. If the people say yes, we borrow the money. Under Article IX, section 14, of the Constitution bonds are issued within 5 years of the date of voter approval, although the Legislature can extend that for an additional two years. It's pretty clear and easy to understand, and that's the way it's worked for almost 200 years.

Again, let me be crystal clear, the Chief Executive has no role whatsoever assigned to him regarding the issuance of bonds in the Maine Constitution. None. So why are we here today? Maine Law, 5 MSRA, section 145, which we passed, mandates that bonds, "Must bear the facsimile of the signature of the Governor and must be signed by the Treasurer of the State or the Treasurer of State's Deputy and attested by the Commissioner of Administrative and Financial Services or such agent as the Commissioner may designate." So the Chief Executive must sign the bonds, or at least they must bear his or her facsimile signature, but, Mr. President, let me suggest this is simply a ministerial act, not a discretionary one. Let me suggest an analogy. When a bill is passed for enactment in this Senate you, Mr. President, signs a document confirming its enactment. You really don't have any choice. Even if you did not vote for the bill and think it is the worst piece of legislation of the century, you sign it and your signature is simply what we call ministerial. The requirement that bonds must bear the signature of the Chief Executive fits into exactly the same category. As far as our own research can determine, no previous Chief Executive ever attempted to hold up the issuance of voter approved bonds by refusing to sign them, at least until this Chief Executive did so with respect to the Lands for Maine's Future Bonds a couple of years ago, an issue which was eventually resolved.

So here we are again. This time we're dealing with the Senior Housing Bond. Two years ago we overwhelmingly approved a $15 million bond issue for senior housing with $14.5 million for new energy efficient homes and $500,000 for home repairs and weatherization programs. The Chief Executive vetoed that, if you recall, and we overcame the veto. Then, according to the Constitution, it went out to the voters. Sixty-nine percent of the voters, including a significant majority in every county of the State, approved the bond issue. State officials have confirmed that the sale of the bonds will not affect the State's credit rating. The program will be administered by the Maine Housing Authority, which is ready to go. This is a good program, but whether you agree with the Senior Housing Bond or not really misses the point, by my perspective. That point could not be more clear, the people have spoken.

So what does this bill do? It makes it clear that once the people have spoken at the ballot box and approved the borrowing that the Chief Executive must issue these Senior Housing Bonds and his signature is not required on the bonds themselves. This bill provides for the Treasurer to do that and gives the Treasurer discretion to hold up on the bonds, hold the bonds up, under specific circumstances set out in the Statutes; such as it would affect the credit rating of the State or interest rates are about to go down and we should wait, or certain other circumstances. This bill, Mr. President, has been crafted in consultation both with the Treasurer's Office and the Attorney General's Office. Mr. President, we have a Republican Senate, a Democratic House, and a Republican Chief Executive. I really don't see how this bill should be viewed in that context at all. This is a bi-partisan bill. It's a good government bill. It's supported by people on both sides of the aisle. Again, the principle is when the people have spoken on bonds we need to respect that will. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Penobscot, Senator Cushing.

Senator CUSHING: Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, I rise to speak in support of this motion. The beauty of this institution, Mr. President, is richness of opinion and ideas that are brought here. I have great respect for my colleague, the Senator from Kennebec, and the logic that he brings to this floor many times. While I respect the intent of what he is doing, I must say that I have some different opinions in regards to the philosophy around this bill. While I respect and understand the authority of the people to vote on indebtedness of the State, it does not obligate us to issue those bonds at a specific time or in a specific amount. That discretion is left to others under our Constitution. I respectfully ask the Body to consider this as they move forward in voting. I appreciate the chance to speak to this matter.

On motion by Senator MILLETT of Cumberland, supported by a Division of one-fifth of the members present and voting, a Roll Call was ordered.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Cumberland, Senator Millett.

Senator MILLETT: Thank you, Mr. President. Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, I rise in opposition to the motion before us. In the 1950s a study showed that 58% of American participants failed a physical fitness test that only 8% of their European counterparts failed. Policy makers began to worry. When President Eisenhower learned of these results he began the President's Council on Youth Fitness. Thirty years after Eisenhower, in response to our country's worsening physical fitness problem, President Reagan expanded the Council and created the President's Challenge Fitness Test. Today we are still dealing with the same issues, plus an increasingly sedentary lifestyle, and we know better the mental and physical health implications of poor physical fitness. I fondly remember recess, as probably you do too, with endless rounds of kick ball, jump rope, and, my favorite, monkey bars. Today, however, far too many of our children do not get regular, meaningful time for physical activity, and we have seen the results. More of our young children, and especially boys, are being sent to Principal's Offices or being prescribed medication for hyperactivity and they are losing ground in their academic achievements. Our nation's focus on high educational standards, accountability, and academic achievement in our schools has helped advance the demise of our children's access to physical activity. Ironically, this negatively impacts their academic achievement. We have intuitively known that it's important to stay fit, keep moving, and engage in physical activities. As adults, we feel refreshed, recharged, and reinvigorated after taking a walk, getting some fresh air, taking a break. Now, with the advances in brain science, we actually can see the effects of physical activity on our bodies and our brains. According to the CDC, physical activity affects the brain in the following ways. It affects our cognitive skills and motor skills by developing through a dynamic interaction. Research has shown that physical movement can affect the brain's physiology by increasing cerebral capillary growth, blood flow, oxygenation, production of neurotrophins, growth of nerve cells in the hippocampus, neurotransmitter levels, development of nerve connections, and density of neuro network brain tissue volume. The science is there. These physiological changes can be associated with improved attention; improved information processing, storage and retrieval; enhanced coping; enhanced positive effect.

From our nation's military leaders to our teachers, there is deep concern that we are not appropriately supporting a critical aspect of our children's lives and health. Just earlier this session we heard from Maine Army National Guard Adjutant General Brigadier General Doug Farnham and his concern that 70% of Mainers of recruitment age are unfit serving under him, particularly due to poor physical fitness. A 2015-16 National Education Association resolution states the National Education Association believes that regular physical activity provides an active form of learning that encourages a healthy lifestyle and promotes physical, mental, and emotional wellness. This physical activity should be provided through physical education classes, recess, and movement activities scheduled throughout the day. That is from our nation's teachers. The Association also believes that recess allows students to develop interpersonal and problem solving skills. By the way, these are skills that the Chamber of Commerce and our businesses have said their potential employees are lacking. That is not a substitute for comprehensive physical education programs. Mission Readiness, an organization of more than 600 retired Admirals, Generals, and other top military leaders, is taking aim at this issue as well. They state that healthy habits start in childhood and schools can play an important role in providing opportunities for physical activity. By adolescence 31% of our youth are already overweight or obese, yet both physical education and recess have declined in schools over the past decade and more than two-thirds of children get less than 20 minutes of vigorous exercise daily. Mission Readiness supports three strategies to increase physical activity in schools: high quality physical education, in-class physical activity break, and structured recess.

Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, we, as elected officials, need to do our part to address this issue just as we have in other areas such as bullying, suicide prevention, and access to healthier foods. I hope you will join me in opposing this motion so that we can start writing a happier chapter in the distressing history of American physical fitness over the last several decades. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Franklin, Senator Saviello.

Senator SAVIELLO: Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President, may I pose a question through the Chair?

THE PRESIDENT: The Senator may pose his question.

Senator SAVIELLO: Thank you, Mr. President. Can a school district already, on their own, implement this kind of physical activity?

THE PRESIDENT: The Senator from Franklin, Senator Saviello, poses a question through the Chair to anyone who may wish to answer. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Hancock, Senator Langley.

Senator LANGLEY: Thank you, Mr. President. Men and women of the Senate, the short answer to the good Senator from Franklin is yes, but I'd also like to rise and ask for your support in the Ought Not to Pass Report. My good colleague from Cumberland, Senator Millett, is absolutely right. Every last thing she told you today is 100% correct and there will be short quiz tomorrow on all those points when we come back. She's absolutely right. I would agree with up to the point of where we legislatively mandate this for our school systems. When we met with our county Teachers of the Year, the ones that could make it down here, there was one in particular who asked us not to do this, not to pass this legislation, because they're doing their very best to try to incorporate into their day as much physical activity they can, whether it be in the classroom, in classroom activities, or whether it be out on the playground. They also implored upon us that they use recess, recess is used, as a management tool. Sometimes they have to be able to speak to a child while everybody goes out to play and if that were to violate 30 minutes a day it would cause a lot of difficulty in their work and their day. It is true that school districts that want to take this up can do this and we firmly believe, I believe, that it's a local issue and school boards, having heard maybe the same presentation, would consider doing something different than they do now. So, folks, I would ask you to support the Ought Not to Pass Report. Thank you.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Cumberland, Senator Breen.

Senator BREEN: Thank you, Mr. President. Men and women of the Senate, I would just like to remind you that the Ought Not to Pass Report and the bill contains a very small mandate of 30 minutes a day, and other than that it's completely up to local school districts, local administrations, local school boards, the community, the teachers, and all of the local folks to figure out how, where, what, what that 30 minutes looks like. So even though we are mandating 30 minutes, we are cognizant of how particular districts and communities know their communities and their school communities best. That's why this local control component is built into the bill. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Knox, Senator Miramant.

Senator MIRAMANT: Thank you, Mr. President. Men and women of the Senate, I brought this bill forward and during the hearings I hoped to learn some more about what was going on about using outside engineers. One of the big things I learned was that, by coming up with about $160 million a year short in our infrastructure needs, it puts everything into bonds and when we use bonds we end up using outside engineering firms to do our engineering. There's a perception that we have to do this. It turns out that the prep work, based on the project, does not need to be outsourced and several lawyers reviewed it and said that there were ways to use our own DOT engineers and to save 50% at least on doing that because any outside engineering is at least double what it costs us to have our engineers. So the projects usually benefit from local knowledge being State of Maine knowledge and that made it even more clear, and the way that that has been addressed is that the outside engineering firms hire away all our engineers. So there's a couple of things we need to do and by passing a bill like this, and requiring more use of our own people, we will save the State a lot of money. By changing from bonding, we will too, and we're working on that. So I would like to see us not move the Ought Not to Pass and give a chance for the Ought to Pass and try to save our taxpayer dollars. Again, I keep trying to find ways and I will keep trying to find ways. Thanks very much.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Androscoggin, Senator Libby.

Senator LIBBY: Thank you, Mr. President. Men and women of the Senate, I rise in opposition to the pending motion. The legislation before us, that we're discussing, would require contractors who are working on homes with potential lead hazards to undergo a very simple, straight forward, certification process, as required by federal rule. In Maine, about 15% of contractors who work on these projects are certified. That's a pretty poor number of folks who have gone through the federal certification. In my view, Mr. President, it's pretty shameful that nearly 40 years after the USEPA determined that lead paint represents a significant hazard to public health, particularly in children, that Maine still has the highest rates of lead poisoning in the country. Lead poisoning causes permanent and irreversible cognitive impairment, impacting a child's ability to reach their full potential in school and in work. Mr. President, I feel it's incumbent on us to bring State resources to bear in enforcing safe lead abatement and lead paint handling. I'd ask the Body to reject the pending motion so that we can get to the other report. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Franklin, Senator Saviello.

Senator SAVIELLO: Thank you, Mr. President. Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, I'm finally paying attention. So let me talk about this bill very quickly. First of all, it's not a ban. In fact, I would suggest to you that the proper title that we might think about would be a promotion. An Act to Reduce Waste by Promoting the Use of Plastic Bags and Recyclable Food Containers. You may actually see that title if, in fact, we accept the amendment as proposed. What this simply does is it actually amends, or modifies, the certain laws that we have to reflect and support the recycling goals that we've established for the State of Maine. We dealt with these recycling goals and reuse goals every session that I've been here and, in fact, really emphasized that last time that we got together. It's not a mandate. I make sure everybody knows that. It's not a mandate. It sets goals for towns, towns that are already taking this action, to make it happen. The goals are set for 2019, 2024, and 2029. Contrary to what the lobby may be telling you, there is no special report required. It will simply be put into the solid waste report that we get on an annual basis when we come back in next year and years after. It also restates the existing goal, which says that every business - and you have to go and check when you get home and find out if this is actually happening and I hope you find it is, I doubt you will - every business that gives out plastic bags, either inside their business or within 20 feet of their door, needs to have a recycling container for those plastic bags. I sure hope that they do. I know some of my facilities at home do and have arrangements with some of the bigger places. Finally, I hope this puts a stop to the perennial bill. I've been here, in the Senate, for four terms. This is the fourth time I've seen a similar bill come through and I think if we establish some goals perhaps it won't happen again, at least for the next time that those of you who get to come back. Thank you very much, Mr. President.

On motion by Senator GRATWICK of Penobscot, supported by a Division of one-fifth of the members present and voting, a Roll Call was ordered.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes the Senator from Penobscot, Senator Gratwick.

Senator GRATWICK: Thank you, Mr. President. Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, I wish to rise in support of my good colleague from the Environmental and Natural Resources Committee, Senator Saviello. This is a bill whose time has come. As you've heard, it has certainly made its way very carefully through our committee, through this assembly. This is a bill, that is not a mandate, that really underlines the importance of the goal of recycling, but it leaves it up to local communities, local stores, on how we're going to go about this. The goals are attainable and I think we all want to move in this direction at this particular time. To my way of thinking, this is just the way a movement like this should be going and I strongly urge you to follow our lights. Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: The pending question before the Senate is the motion by the Senator from Franklin, Senator Saviello, to Accept the Majority Ought to Pass as Amended Report, in concurrence. A Roll Call has been ordered. Is the Senate ready for the question?

The Doorkeepers secured the Chamber.

The Secretary opened the vote.
